QUALITY POLICY

New Rubber S.r.l is specialized in the production of technical elastomer components, exclusively developed according to the specific requirements of its clients.

The Quality represents the fundamental value upon which the company has always based its relationship with customers.

To maintain the high standards achieved, adapt to customer needs, and strengthen its position in the market, New Rubber s.r.l has decided to implement a Quality Management System in compliance with the UNI EN ISO 9001:2015 standard.

The company's high level of specialization in the development of components intended to be in contact with food has led the decision to certify the entire production system according to the European standard EC 2023:2006.

This protocol, approved and monitored by an independent certification body, ensures full compliance of these products with European regulations and adheres to proper guidelines for meeting other international standards.

The management actively promotes a culture of quality not only within its own organization but also by engaging every part of the supply chain. This commitment extends to both service and product quality, while also prioritizing environmental sustainability and safety.

The objectives of the company regarding the Quality are:

- Continuously strive for the improvement of the quality of products and services offered, ensuring complete professionalism at all times.
- Maintain a primary focus on customer needs, strengthening relationships and collaborating closely with them.
- Enhance and promote the company's image by upholding high standards and maintaining competitiveness.
- Establish an effective approach to future market development opportunities.

To support these objectives, New Rubber S.r.l has established the following Quality Policy:

- Maintain the quality management system in compliance with UNI EN ISO 9001:2015 and, specifically, the system based on the EC 2023:2006 standard for food contact materials.
- Improve the skills and engagement of company personnel through training and development programs, fostering participation and alignment with Quality objectives.
- Constantly monitor compliance with current regulations and internal company procedures.
- Ensure adherence to qualitative, quantitative, and temporal values in accordance with contractual requirements.
- Strengthen partnerships at key points within the supply chain.

The systematic application of defined tools, combined with the active involvement of all members within the organization, is essential to achieve the set objectives and enabling the corporate system to tackle new challenges effectively.

New Rubber s.r.l. is committed to environmental protection and ensuring the health and safety of its workers through the implementation of the following measures:

- Reducing energy consumption by adopting a conscious approach to the use of energy sources and water resources, fully adhering to national and local regulations.
- Continuously upgrading machinery and equipment to improve efficiency and sustainability.
- Maintaining a regular maintenance schedule for all systems and facilities.
- Complying with all applicable safety regulations and waste disposal standards.
- Pursuing the use of materials with minimal environmental impact, including recyclable and eco-friendly packaging solutions.
- Optimizing transportation and logistics to reduce environmental impact.
